TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

It is a pleasure to express my views about Raahim Salman Abdul Ghaffar, whom I have known for over four years in the undergraduate Dental Surgery Program at the Altamash Institute of Dental Medicine from 2017 to 2022 and later as a House Officer.

Raahim is an intelligent, determined and well-mannered individual who seems to be fully committed to his career in dentistry. He is well-focused on the academic, high Research-based skills and clinical aspects of his work. He possesses very good verbal and written communication skills. He has always been eager to learn and complemented his undergraduate curricula with participation in conferences, workshops, lectures and seminars which reflected on his consistent desire to enhance his knowledge of dental profession. He has been a good student obtaining one distinction in his undergraduate subjects.

Dr. Raahim Salman Abdul Ghaffar led two key research projects under my supervision. The first, published in BMC Oral Health, examined dental anxiety caused by high-speed handpiece noise. The second, ChatGPT's role in dental education, is currently under review. He served as the first and corresponding author for both.

Raahim's overall performance during his course of studies at Altamash Institute of Dental Medicine has been very good and an indicator that he takes his profession seriously. He has worked very hard in all of our departments. He is very efficient and discharges his responsibilities in a diligent and conscientious manner. His patient management skills are pleasant and he maintains good rapport with both his colleagues and superiors. He can comfortably form and develop a very strong relationship with anyone, which is especially relevant for your country's high diverse, clinical and research interpersonal landscape.

I wholeheartedly recommend him as an Oral healthcare provider as I am confident that he will make a significant contribution through his dedication, hard work and keen interest. I wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

Please feel free to contact me for any further inquiries.
